Annual Report 2020-21

REFLECTING ON A YEAR OF RESILIENCE

We at Cal State Fullerton have been, and continue to be, the gold standard of the California State University system since the pandemic hit. One of the first campuses to pivot to distance learning, our virtual policies adopted by our Academic Senate and Academic Affairs division set the standard for the CSU. Our telecommuting policy, worked out with our local union chapters, was adopted systemwide. Our testing and masking protocols were shared as a best practice by the Chancellor's Office, and our vaccination records policy is being praised as a model for our sister campuses.

Today, with nearly 65% of our classes in person and about 90% of our students having at least one face-to-face class, we have more students on our campus than most any other university in the state. At the same time, we are also one of the safest places in California with close to 100% of our faculty, staff and students in compliance with our vaccine and exemption mandates. On top of all that, this past year we conferred more bachelor's degrees to Black and Latinx Titans than ever before; more women earned their bachelor's and doctoral degrees than in any other year in our history; and we hit all-time highs in two-, four- and six-year graduation rates for all students.

Given that our faculty, staff and students accomplished this amidst a global health crisis and a surge of systemic racism that continues to be our nation's true ongoing plague, it would be understandable if the Titan achievements stopped there.

Instead, after witnessing a year of unimaginable Titan resilience, California knows what it takes to confer more baccalaureate degrees to women and historically underrepresented students than any other university in the state; the nation knows what it takes to serve more Pell-eligible students than the entire Ivy League combined; the world knows what it takes to garner a record-breaking investment from one of the most selective philanthropic teams on the planet; and most importantly, we in the Titan family know what it takes to build an anti-racist community that promotes justice, equity and inclusion for all.

It Takes a Titan.

Of course, it also takes the support and advocacy of our most revered Titan investors, just a few of whom are highlighted in this Annual Report. Our appreciation for your investment is matched only by our commitment to provide the greatest possible return: new generations of intellectual, community and economic leaders who will shape and lead our nation well into the future.

Setting a New Enrollment Record

While universities across the nation saw declining student enrollments amid the COVID-19 pandemic, Cal State Fullerton's enrollment headed in the opposite direction. A record 41,408 students enrolled in the university in fall 2020, and 40,087 students enrolled in fall 2021. As one of the first universities in the nation to announce it would pivot to remote programming in fall 2020, CSUF doubled-down on specialized outreach and communications efforts.

Advisement- and enrollment-based processes were modified so students, faculty and staff could engage virtually. Faculty redoubled their efforts to ensure that students continued to receive the best possible education and more than 1,100 faculty registered for “teach remotely” professional development workshops in summer 2020.

Fulfilling a Commencement Promise

When the COVID-19 pandemic made in-person celebrations impossible, President Fram Virjee promised Class of 2020 graduates that they would have the opportunity to participate in a commencement ceremony when it was safe to do so. Virjee kept his promise.

On June 15, 2021, approximately 3,000 graduates from the Class of 2020 and 7,000 graduates from the Class of 2021 took their celebratory walk across the commencement stage. Invited guests snapped photographs and showered them with flowers, Hawaiian leis, balloons and hugs. Thousands of families and friends also joined the momentous occasion by tuning into livestreams and hosting watch parties.

University Earns Seal of Excelencia

Cal State Fullerton's longstanding commitment to Latinx student success has been recognized with the 2021 Seal of Excelencia from Excelencia in Education.

The certification identifies the university as a trendsetting leader in engaging, enrolling and graduating Latinx students. To earn the seal, CSUF underwent a rigorous verification process of its efforts to intentionally serve Latinx students — demonstrating alignment across the areas of data, practice and leadership. With this three-year certification, CSUF joins an elite group of only 10 institutions across the U.S. that have earned the 2021 seal.

EVERY GIFT UPLIFTS THE TITAN COMMUNITY

What a remarkable year. Over the past academic year, we saw incredible challenges for Titans. But from these challenges, the Titan community came together to support our students as they graduate and lead the future of Orange County and California.

The best example of this support came from the remarkable gift of $40 million from MacKenzie Scott and her husband, Dan Jewett. Here is one of the most sophisticated philanthropists on the planet, with experienced advisers and an extensive review process, choosing to make a significant gift to Cal State Fullerton. The gift reinforces what so many already know — that Cal State Fullerton is investment-worthy and creates a transformational educational experience for our students and community.

The following pages provide just a few examples of the impact of your philanthropy. It is always so challenging to pick these stories because every gift helps uplift the Titan community.

Thank you again for your support. If last year has proven anything, it is that It Takes a Titan to move Orange County and California forward.

Greg J. Saks
Vice President for University Advancement

Our Campaign

With a visionary $40 million gift from MacKenzie Scott and Dan Jewett, Cal State Fullerton's philanthropic giving for the 2020-21 fiscal year reached a record-breaking total of more than $62 million.

To date, $231 million (92%) has been raised toward the "It Takes a Titan" campaign — the university's first-ever comprehensive philanthropic campaign that prioritizes academic innovation, student empowerment, campus transformation and community enrichment. The following pages share the impact of philanthropy for current and future Titans.

Engineering Big Ideas

Cal State Fullerton's College of Engineering and Computer Science's "big ideas" initiative is providing real-life solutions to society's most pressing issues through three faculty-driven projects.

Researchers who are part of the "Engineering Wildfire Mitigation" project are designing a wireless, solar-powered sensor hub that relays information to a central processing station for data analysis and generation of fire alerts. The "Digital Homelessness Initiative" will leverage technology-based solutions to serve the homeless, including telehealth to provide mental health services and "digital identities" to help people securely keep track of Social Security and insurance cards. The "Human-Centered Design Initiative" will empower engineering students to design and implement solutions for social problems in Orange County by collaborating with community organizations, nonprofits and governments.

Training Diverse Journalists

Cal State Fullerton is one of 17 institutions of higher education across the nation — and the only four-year university in California — selected for the NBCUniversal Academy collaboration.

The partnership will expand learning opportunities and training for underrepresented journalism students. The $500,000, two-year grant from NBCUniversal will support scholarships for College of Communications students, faculty activities and classes with NBCU journalists, and equipment for multimedia reporting. Students will gain expanded opportunities to work one-on-one with news professionals, enhance global and multicultural skills, and access industry internships and jobs.

Boosting Civic Engagement

Each year, the Cal State DC Scholars and City Management Fellowship programs prepare Cal State Fullerton students to become leaders in the community, state and nation. DC Scholars have the opportunity to study politics and intern in the nation's capital, while City Management Fellows gain first-hand experiences in the workings of local government. Both programs are generously supported by donors.

Alongside these programs, Cal State Fullerton was named the 2020 statewide champion in the California University and College Ballot Bowl. CSUF secured the largest number of student voter registrations among 95 participating campuses, a notable win during the COVID-19 pandemic. Associated Students Inc. led the effort, with assistance from the Office of Government and Community Relations and other campus groups.

Safeguarding the Arboretum

The Mysun Charitable Foundation awarded a $100,000 matching grant to the Fullerton Arboretum to bring its horticulture team back to work full time amid the COVID-19 outbreak. Thousands of plants and trees inside the arboretum were at risk with a massive overgrowth of weeds and runoff from winter rains, as the 26-acre botanical garden was closed to the public during the pandemic.

The grant was matched in donations from supporters across campus and in the community, and the Fullerton Arboretum reopened in summer 2021. During this time, Cal State Fullerton also received a $1 million state budget appropriation for the arboretum, which will support such projects as rehabilitating the aging lake and stream system, completing the "Friends Terrace," updating interpretive signage, and repairing the historical Heritage House.

An Unexpected, Visionary Gift

Philanthropist and author MacKenzie Scott and her husband, Dan Jewett, gave an unrestricted gift of $40 million to Cal State Fullerton — the largest gift in university history.

Scott called higher education a “proven pathway to opportunity” and explained that she sought to support “two- and four-year institutions successfully educating students who come from communities that have been chronically underserved.” Cal State Fullerton’s allocation of the gift will be driven by its core mission of student success; diversity, equity and inclusion; and faculty research, support and retention. A large portion of the gift will be placed in the university’s endowment, where it will continue to generate funds to benefit future Titans.

Grants and Contracts

$2,876,790

$650,000

Advancing Women in Technology

To address the gender gap, remove barriers and increase the number of women graduating in computer science, Cal State Fullerton was awarded a $650,000 grant from the Center for Inclusive Computing at Northeastern University.

The grant will improve the pipeline of community college students to CSUF, expand introductory courses, and build a culture of career preparation and success for females. Women currently represent 14.6% of undergraduate students in computer science and computer engineering, with a retention rate of 92.9% — indicating that once women join the major, they are likely to succeed in their efforts toward degree completion. Northeastern University's Center for Inclusive Computing is funded by Pivotal Ventures, an investment and incubation company created by philanthropist Melinda French Gates.

Sustaining the Center for Leadership

Lawyer, business leader, author, alumnus and university supporter Terry M. Giles '70 pledged a $1 million gift to benefit Cal State Fullerton's Center for Leadership.

The Center for Leadership is the primary voice and resource for leadership development in Orange County. Its flagship programs include Bringing Learning to Work, Leadership Scholars, "The Leadership Voice" TV show and Leadership Awards — all part of the center's work to help leaders and organizations develop through education, training and outreach. The Giles O'Malley Foundation gift is a game-changer for the center, allowing it to become a sustainable resource for CSUF and the Orange County community.

Our Supporters

The Honor Roll recognizes more than $62 million in philanthropic support through outright cash gifts, pledge payments, in-kind donations, testamentary commitments and new pledges to the university between July 1, 2020 and June 30, 2021, as reported to the Cal State Fullerton Philanthropic Foundation and University Advancement by on-campus beneficiaries.

The report does not include membership in various university support groups. Every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy and completeness of these listings. If your name was omitted or is incorrectly shown, please notify University Advancement at 657-278-2118 or uarecords@fullerton.edu.

OUR SUPPORTERS | ONTIVEROS LEGACY SOCIETY

The Ontiveros Legacy Society consists of university supporters who have included Cal State Fullerton in their estate plans for any form of planned gift. The Ontiveros name honors the land grant ownership of Fullerton and other north Orange County cities. Martina and Juan Pacifico Ontiveros were the original owners of thousands of acres in Fullerton, Brea and Placentia, including land that is now home to CSUF. The name celebrates the legacy of Cal State Fullerton's past as it advances toward the future.
