

IT TAKES A TITAN

Annual Report 2021-22

Cal State Fullerton

STANDING OUT FOR GREATNESS OF ACHIEVEMENT

Over the past three years, we at Cal State Fullerton have set out to define the word “Titan.” In the dictionary, you’ll find the definition: “one who stands out for greatness of achievement.”

Indeed, we are no strangers to greatness. During the 2021-22 academic year, Cal State Fullerton increased graduation rates for first-time freshmen and graduated one of the largest classes in Titan history. More historically underrepresented students earned their bachelor’s and master’s degrees this past year, and more women earned their bachelor’s degrees and doctorates than any other year in our history.

Our national accolades were numerous as well. Excelencia in Education recognized Cal State Fullerton with the Seal of Excelencia for advancing Latinx student success. INSIGHT Into Diversity honored us with the Higher Education Excellence in Diversity Award for the fourth year in a row. The U.S. Department of State named CSUF a Fulbright Hispanic-Serving Institution Leader. The Campaign for College Opportunity selected us as a Champion of Higher Education for enrolling and supporting community college transfer students.

Our 2022 Outstanding Professor Sam Behseta often says to students, “If you fail, it’s because I failed as a teacher. It’s my job to help you understand.” This is exactly the kind of accountability, compassion and greatness our Titan community brings to campus every day. When I reflect on what it means to be a Titan, “one who stands out for greatness of achievement” is exactly right.

A Champion for Data Science Research

Sam Behseta, professor of mathematics, works tirelessly to involve underrepresented students in high-level research and to ensure they receive training on the foundations and modern applications of data science. For example, soon after the outbreak of the COVID-19 pandemic, Behseta and a colleague began building machine learning and mathematical models for predicting the spread of COVID-19.

For his dedication to teaching and accomplished research, Behseta was named the university's 2022 Outstanding Professor. As director of CSUF's Center for Computational and Applied Mathematics, Behseta helped the university secure two high-performance computing clusters (supercomputers). Technology and faculty expertise are paving the way for advancement in biology, biochemistry, statistics and applied mathematics.

Student Steps Up to Advocate for Peers

As a student trustee on the California State University Board of Trustees, CSUF graduate student Maria G. Linares '19 (B.A. sociology) is a critical voice in shaping policies that impact students on all 23 campuses. Her priorities include improving access to mental health services, advocating for more counselors of diverse backgrounds, increasing funds for basic needs services and providing resources for survivors of domestic violence.

Linares' two-year term concludes in spring 2023, when she expects to complete her master's degree in public administration. She discovered her passion for public advocacy while serving on CSUF's Associated Students Inc. as an undergraduate student, passing resolutions to increase support for students with disabilities and undocumented students.

George Takei Discusses WWII Memoir

Actor and social justice activist George Takei flashed the famous “Live Long and Prosper” hand signal from “Star Trek” to an audience gathered at Cal State Fullerton in April. Takei’s bestselling graphic memoir, “They Called Us Enemy,” was the university’s One Book, One CSUF program selection for the 2021-22 academic year.

Takei wrote his book, which details his personal experience living in internment camps during World War II, in a graphic memoir format to reach a younger audience. “I look at young people as the voters of tomorrow,” he said. “The more detailed knowledge they have, the more likely they are to avoid some of the mistakes and cruel decisions that have been made in the past.”

A Hub for Engineering, Computer Science

A new innovation hub at Cal State Fullerton will inspire the future of such fields as augmented reality, artificial intelligence, electric vehicle design, cybersecurity, robotics and advanced manufacturing, while serving as an educational opportunity equalizer and workforce multiplier for Orange County and beyond.

Over the past decade, there has been a 147% increase in enrollment growth in the university's College of Engineering and Computer Science (from 1,900 to 4,700 students). To support the demand for a highly skilled, STEM-trained workforce, the California Legislature allocated $67.5 million in its 2022-23 budget toward the construction of an Engineering and Computer Science Innovation Hub that will create a pipeline of talent through hands-on learning and state-of-the-art spaces.

Reaching Out to 1,500 ‘Missing’ Students

More than 1,500 students, many who were on the brink of dropping out, were encouraged to reenroll at Cal State Fullerton for the fall 2021 semester. Amid the COVID-19 pandemic, college students across the nation faced such challenges as taking on extra jobs, caring for children, grappling with technology or financial issues, or supporting sick or dying friends and family members.

Members of CSUF’s retention specialist team were attentive to these situations, going to great lengths to reach students. “Once we know what the problem is, we can start breaking down obstacles,” said Elizabeth Boretz, assistant vice president for student success. “We want students to know that we can help. We aren’t going to give up.”

Class of 2022 Persists Amid Pandemic

Cal State Fullerton's Class of 2022 demonstrated they have what it takes to successfully navigate a period of pandemic and uncertainty to achieve their goal: a college degree. More than 11,000 Titans were invited to walk across the stage during the university's four days of commencement ceremonies in May.

"You've turned hardships into remarkable achievements," said President Fram Virjee.

"You have refined your resilience and your tenacity. You have mastered out-of-the-box thinking, problem-solving and the skills you will need. Now it's time to look into the future — to write the next chapter of your life, to contemplate what you will do to bring your dreams to reality, to make the world a better place."

Advancing Success for Latinx Students

Excelencia in Education recognized two Cal State Fullerton programs that have positively impacted and accelerated Latinx student success in higher education. Project upGRADS, which supports the academic achievement of Latinx and other underrepresented graduate students, was selected as one of 20 Examples of Excelencia finalists in the nation for 2022. The program provides personalized, timely and holistic support for students' educational journeys.

CSUF's Ánimo: Latinx Counseling Emphasis was named one of 10 Programs to Watch in 2022. The program consists of five master's-level counseling courses that prepare graduates to provide bilingual and bicultural counseling for Latinx clients and families.

Student Transforms Pain Into Color

When Marisol Rivera was 15 years old, her parents were deported to Tijuana, Mexico. Since then, she has worked to turn her pain into a powerful example for her two younger siblings, who she officially adopted when she turned 17. A first-generation student who earned her bachelor's degree in American studies from Cal State Fullerton in 2020, Rivera also joined the Class of 2022 with a master's degree in American studies.

Recognized with the Alumni Association's 2022 Outstanding Graduate Student Award, Rivera shared, "Receiving this award means that people like me, who come from untraditional homes and face struggles caused by forces larger than us, have a place in higher education. Somos orugas transformando dolor en color (We are caterpillars transforming pain into color)."

ELEVATING THE POTENTIAL OF OUR STUDENTS

When we launched Cal State Fullerton's first-ever comprehensive philanthropic campaign in March 2020, we set an aspirational goal of raising $200 million. Then the COVID-19 pandemic hit.

During one of the most trying times in our history, the Titan family continued to support student success and advance the work of the university — even raising additional funds for students hit hard by the pandemic.

Thanks to the deep-seated generosity of thousands of donors and alumni, not only did we reach our $200 million goal, but we raised it to $250 million in 2021 and exceeded that goal six months early.

In the coming months, you will hear more about the outcome of our campaign — and more about the stories of students directly impacted by your gifts. Stories of students who received scholarships to study abroad, buy materials for their senior projects and restore a meadow in our Fullerton Arboretum. Stories of students who benefited from grant-funded research and mentorship programs. Stories of students who gained confidence, discovered their passions and developed the skills they need to be leaders in the county, nation and world.

This is what the "It Takes a Titan" campaign has been about all along: empowering our students.

We are incredibly grateful to our supporters, many of whom are listed in the Honor Roll. You are the Titans it takes to ensure that Cal State Fullerton's work continues well into the future.

Gregory J. Saks
Vice President for University Advancement

A Gift to Preserve OC Histories

The Lawrence de Graaf Center for Oral and Public History at Cal State Fullerton celebrated its new Pollak Library space in January, acknowledging donors who have supported its work. The center, home to more than 6,200 oral histories, continues to expand its research activities and ensure that its collection is well-maintained.

Among the donors are Wylie and Bette Aitken, who both attended CSUF. Aitken, who became a nationally recognized trial lawyer, shared, "This project has collected and will continue to collect so many important stories which would otherwise be lost." The Bette and Wylie A. Aitken Community Room was named in honor of the couple's $500,000 gift.

Grants and Contracts

(largest research grant)

Tech Solutions for the Formerly Homeless

A smart cooking pot and pillbox are among the prototypes being explored by a Cal State Fullerton research team developing smart-home technologies for people previously affected by homelessness and now living in permanent supportive housing. Funded by a $1.25 million National Science Foundation grant, the three-year project will study technology to improve access to such services as mental health counseling, substance abuse resources, job placement, and assistance in obtaining state and federal benefits.

"The unexpected COVID-19 pandemic accelerated the role of technology in providing some of these services," said Anand Panangadan, associate professor of computer science, who is directing the project. Project collaborators are USC, Mercy House and Jamboree Housing Corp.

Late Dean's Gift to Benefit Arboretum

Fullerton Arboretum received a significant donation from Jill Kurti Norman, wife of the late Harry Norman who served for 23 years as dean of Extension and associate vice president for International Programs at Cal State Fullerton. The gift will be used to establish the Harry L. Norman Endowment at the Fullerton Arboretum, focusing on the care and maintenance of the Coastal Chaparral Collection.

"Harry was always an outdoors person," said Kurti Norman. "I felt like I should honor his love for the arboretum and how hard he worked for the school for 23 years. It makes me feel good to know that I am making it possible for his spirit to stay there."

Our Supporters

The Honor Roll recognizes more than $31 million in philanthropic support through outright cash gifts, pledge payments, in-kind donations, testamentary commitments and new pledges to the university between July 1, 2021 and June 30, 2022. The information was reported to the Cal State Fullerton Philanthropic Foundation and University Advancement by on-campus beneficiaries.

The report does not include membership in various university support groups. Every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy and completeness of these listings. If your name was omitted or is incorrectly shown, please notify University Advancement at 657-278-2118 or uarecords@fullerton.edu.

OUR SUPPORTERS | ONTIVEROS LEGACY SOCIETY

The Ontiveros Legacy Society consists of university supporters who have included Cal State Fullerton in their estate plans for any form of planned gift. The Ontiveros name honors the land grant ownership of Fullerton and other north Orange County cities. Martina and Juan Pacifico Ontiveros were the original owners of thousands of acres in Fullerton, Brea and Placentia, including land that is now home to CSUF. The name celebrates the legacy of Cal State Fullerton's past as it advances toward the future.

It Takes a Titan to Leave a Legacy

You have the power to support the university, and generations of Titans to come, through a planned gift. Ontiveros Legacy Society members enjoy the financial advantages of a planned gift and feel the sense of pride and gratification that comes with giving in perpetuity. Helpful planning tools are available online, or contact Hart Roussel, director of planned giving, at 657-278-5429 or CSUFplannedgift@fullerton.edu for more information.
